

GREAT FEATURE IS SEEN FIRST TIME HERE AT PASTIME

Wonderful Picture Based on Famous Old Poem "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse" Is Shown First Time Here Today.

The William Fox photo-production, "Over the Hill," which is heralded as one of the most fascinating film dramas released in the last decade, will be shown at Pastime for the first time Monday.

The success of "Over the Hill" during a year's run in New York, reveals a significant psychological angle of the showmanship of its producer, William Fox. For Mr. Fox, with the unerring instinct of a good showman, has in the case of this picture reached back into the dim and misty past and brought forth a story that is exceedingly timely in its message, and appeals to every known type and grade of theatregoers. There is so much laughter, wholesome sentiment and genuine amusement value in "Over the Hill" that it stands out as embodying all that is finest and most attractive in theatrical entertainment.

The film story was made from Will Carelton's "Farm Balads" by Paul H. Sloans, and was directed with superb skill by Harry Millarde. The part of Ma Benton, the principal character, is played by Mary Carr, who has made of it a masterpiece of dramatic art.

POOLED TOBACCO EXPECTED IN 800N.

So far Maysville has received over two million and a half pounds of pooled tobacco. This does not include the headstock tobacco being received from the surrounding points. Movement of the same is being facilitated to the purchasers and redryers in every way. The consensus of local experts is that this crop will be entirely delivered by the middle of next month. Its quality however more than makes up for its shortage. And in the end this is the matter that determines the price received. So surely nothing better could be said of the crop.

FARM CONDITIONS ARE IMPROVED, SAYS REPORT

Optimistic Views Are Warranted Says War Finance Board's Statement.

Washington, Feb. 12. — Optimistic views of improved conditions in the country's basic agricultural industries are warranted by reports received by the War Finance Corporation from its field agencies, according to a statement issued tonight by Managing Director Meyer.

"Corn is now selling at country elevators in Nebraska and Iowa at 40 cents a bushel as against 20 cents four months ago," he said. "Hogs command a good market, and reports indicate that farmers are getting the equivalent of 80 to 90 cents for corn that is marketed on the hoof."

"The market for sheep is stabilized. They are selling in large quantities and at prices considered satisfactory to the growers and feeders."

"The cattle market is no longer demoralized; the breeding herds are being held; the young stock is no longer being sacrificed and the feeding and fattening business is proceeding in good volume and with fairly satisfactory returns. There is a broad market for wool and hides at good prices."

"The grain markets are showing a good consumptive demand."

THIS COUNTY GETS A RAISE BY STATE BOARD ON TAXES

State Tax Commission raises Mason County's Assessment Two and a Quarter Million Dollars—Still Lower than 1920.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 13. — Assessment of real and personal property in Kentucky will be little changed from that of 1921 by the process of equalizing the 1921 valuation, on which the State Tax Commission will commence hearings Thursday.

Tentative raises have been made on 105 of the 120 counties, but, even with their raises, seventy-seven of them are below 1920 figures, and a total of $31,940,213, while twenty-eight, including most of the coal counties, were raised a total of $37,340,000, putting the tentative assessments of the 105 counties $5,400,196 above that of 1920.

In these raises, outside the coal counties, Rainey T. Wells, chairman, said, the only aim was to keep land up to what it was last year. A big loss in livestock and personal property brings down the assessment in all the counties.

Mr. Wells also said the assessments this year come nearer conforming to sale prices on the transfer sheets sent in by the County Clerk than they ever did before.

In Mason county the State Board has increased the assessment $2,250,000. On land the increase is $1,100,000, lots $150,000 and personally $1,000,000. With this additional increase Mason's assessment is still $623,310 lower than it was in 1920.

The state board has fixed Friday, March 3rd as the date for hearing complaints on this proposed increase. Judge Purnell has not as yet named the committee to represent Mason county before the board on this date.

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address

(Delivered at the dedication of the cemetery in Gettysburg, November 19, 1863.)

OUR score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived of liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as the final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a larger sense, we can not dedicate—we can not consecrate—we can not hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

TAYLOR SLAYER MAY NEVER BE APPREHENDED

District Attorney Attacks "Faked Interviews"—Official Hit Bump.

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 13. — Investigation by District Attorney Woodwine into the William Desmond Taylor murder mystery will proceed today although it is a legal holiday, Mr. Woodwine issued a statement condemning "faked and fraudulent interviews" on the case and declaring "there was grace and serious doubt at the present time as to whether the murderer will ever be apprehended."

Eleven days have passed since the discovery of the director's body and the officers assigned to the mystery have worked with less than their ordinary sleep and under unusual pressure in tracking down what seemed like tangible clues and in investigating almost innumerable "tips."

ROAD BONDS TO BE BEFORE HOUSE TUESDAY

Big Rush Before General Assembly This Week—Rules Committee In Charge Next.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 13.—With only one week left until the rules committee take charge, the legislature faces the disposing of a number of bills now in the orders of the day. Later the same afternoon, the senate committee on Kentucky Statutes, Number 2, will meet to discuss the Brock bill, to provide for a board of censorship for moving picture films.

What the senate bill will do to the Thompson tax revision bill is agitating members of the lower house as well as the senators themselves, many of the senators are committed to a policy of reducing the rate on farm lands and real estate. Whether they will abolish the exemptions, as provided in the Thompson measure and reclassify property for purposes of taxation is to be decided by developments.

OUR POLICY:

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

PARTING OF THE FINANCIAL WAYS.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is an officer of the Government who is not well known to the rank and file of the people. From time to time, however, he makes a setting forth of financial fact or an analysis of fiscal problems which puts public questions in a new aspect. The circumstance that Mr. Mellon seems never to be misled by the will-o'-the-wisp of politics but comes straight to the point with blunt business like statements singles him out among public men of the present day and should make his service of the highest value to the community.

Mr. Mellon has now turned a bright white light upon the soldier bonus proposal. The facts which he develops are there:

1. The scheme to use interest or principal payments received from foreign countries as a bonus basis is unthinkable, because the interest is inadequate if collected, and at present impossible of collection; while the plan itself is dishonest, because "in justice to Liberty bond holders the Government is bound to apply any principal payments  to the retirement of outstanding Liberty bonds ***"
2. The funds for bonus distribution if raised at all must therefore be raised by taxation. They will require $850,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 during the first two years.
3. The total cost of the bonus will not be less than $3,300,000,000 and may run to $5,200,000,000.
4. So fully is the field of taxation now covered that it is difficult to recommend any new or additional impositions.
5. A bonus policy will greatly impede and hinder the Treasury in the funding and disposition of the public debt, large sums of which fall due within the next year or two.

This is the whole case. Secretary Mellon's statement briefly put it that the Government cannot pay a bonus calling for $1,000,000,000 within two years out of any funds now in hand and is in no position to get new funds; while, should it attempt to do so, it will run grave risk of entirely disorganizing the finances of the nation beside enormously increasing the already too heavy expenses of administration. Incidentally the Secretary brings out the little known fact that the Government is now spending annually on the care and relief of soldiers about $450,000,000, a sum which would be in addition to the amounts contemplated in the bonus program.

A choice now made in favor of bonus extravagance would be fatal to the prospects of recovery from the desperate conditions into which we were plunged by the war and might easily compel us to assume a place by the side of the European countries whose budgets not only have never been balanced but are unlikely to be. Secretary Mellon's impressive showing of facts and figures must convince every thoughtful reader with the conviction that the situation has not been exaggerated and that the time has come to face a crucial condition in American politics and finance.

The time has come for the business community, indeed for sober citizens of all classes and in all parts of the country, to arouse themselves to the situation and to express some definite view as to the bonus question. They should indicate their opinion in no uncertain terms to their members of Congress and convince their Representatives that there is no surer road to defeat than commitment to this plan for the wrecking of the Treasury and of national finance in general.—New York Journal of Commerce.

A BONUS PLAN WOULD BE BETTER THAN A PROTEST.

Soldiers' bonus legislation has been indorsed in principle by President Harding, by a large group of United States senators and representatives, by a vast majority of the 4,000,000 American world war veterans, by innumerable civilian organizations, and, we believe by the majority of American citizens whose homes, lives, institutions, and property these soldiers defended at the risk of their own lives and at the sacrifice of their material prosperity. It is virtually assured.

Secretary Mellon's statement that $50,000,000 "burdensome additional taxation" will be required in the next two years to finance the initial payments of a bonus and that "the taxes already in force are too onerous for the country's good" therefore appears in the light of opposition to a project morally approved. It was such opposition, extended through the president, that postponed passage of the bonus bill a year ago. It should not again prevent settlement of the country's just debt to the nation's defenders.

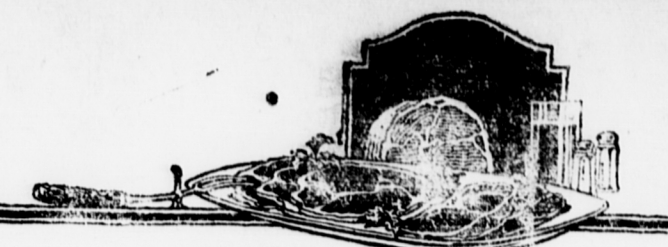

Instead of opposing the bonus by pointing out the burdens and difficulties of financing it, Mr. Mellon would do better to seek, find, and suggest methods of raising the money. Payments of debts are always irksome. But that does not relieve the obligation of the debtor. It merely forces him to extraordinary efforts, and perhaps to sacrifice, to raise the funds. That is the necessity confronting this country.

As secretary of the treasury it is not Mr. Mellon's duty so much to point out the difficulty of his position as to seek means for relieving such difficulty. It is, of course, within his rights to oppose waste and unnecessary expenditure, but once an expenditure is authorized, as the bonus will be authorized, he should be prepared with an adequate program for providing the wherewithal.

His comments on the expense of the proposed bonus indicate not only that he is not so prepared but that he is not preparing. His statement that European debts cannot be safely or improperly used as a source of the necessary funds undoubtedly is correct. But that very point would seem to make it more incumbent upon him to seek other methods. Mr. Mellon is an able man. If he goes to work at the task now instead of attempting to scare the country away from the paying of just obligations he probably will have a concrete, practical, and generally acceptable program ready by the time the bonus is authorized. Let it be soon.—Chicago Tribune.

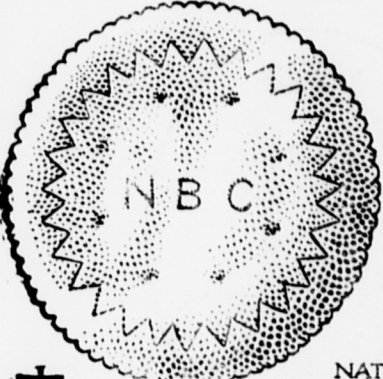

There are many indications that the soldier bonus legislation will be enacted—this in spite of the solemn warning of the Secretary of the Treasury pointing out the disastrous to national finance and personal stability which is likely to follow. Somebody may get some good out of this bonus. That may be doubted. All of us will sweat for it. That ought to be thoroughly understood.—Worcester Telegram.

If the Wilson administration hadn't let a billion get away on its airplane program, a billion or two on its shipping program, another billion on its railroad management, and various hundreds of millions in other schemes of waste and loot we would not now be so burdened by taxes, and the coin for the soldiers' bonus could be easily found.—Potomac (Mo.) Journal.

REDUCTION IN FREIGHT RATES BEING URGED
State Highway Commission and Highway Contractors Seek Reduction in Freight Rate for Materials.

Frankfort, Ky. — A concerted effort at reduction in freight rates on highway construction materials was launched Thursday at a joint meeting of the State Highway Commission and the Kentucky Association of Highway Contractors with the State Railroad Commission. The meeting was arranged at the suggestion of the contractors' association for the purpose of pointing out the alleged exorbitant charges for transportation of the commodities used in highway construction, which tend to keep the cost of roads out of proportion with other essentials.

It was alleged that freight alone on some materials now costs more than the value of the material and in some instances is greater now than the combined cost of the material and freight amounted to a few years past. The highway commission and the contractors' representatives pointed out that the high cost of roads, while 40 per cent. lower than 1920 prices, is due almost entirely to market prices of materials and freight, the wages of common labor being practically reduced to pre-war rates. The Railroad Commission explained the limitations fixed by law on its regulatory powers and in the discussion it was brought out that a bill (Senate Bill 66) is pending in the Legislature which would give the railroad commission enlarged powers in the supervision of rates. The Highway commission and the contractors' association expressed approval of the measure and a determination to work for its passage.

The Expression of Many a Kidney Sufferer in Maysville.

A stubborn backache is cause to suspect kidney trouble. When the kidneys are inflamed and swollen, stooping brings a sharp twinge in the small of the back, that almost takes the breath away. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve sluggish kidneys—relieve aching backs. Ask your neighbors. Here's Maysville proof.

Mrs. H. Jones, 702 East Second street, says: "I well know the value of Doan's Kidney Pills, having used them for disordered kidneys and backache and they cured me of the complaint. My back had been giving me trouble for sometime. There was a dull, nagging pain across the center of my back just over my kidneys. Many a day I had to let my housework go undone as I was feeling so miserable. I had pains in the back of my head and my kidneys weren't acting regularly. As Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in my family successfully I went to Wood & Son's Drug Store and got three boxes. After using them I was all right. I am glad to recommend Doan's."

New York Letter

New York. — The highest price paid for any modern American painting is said to be the $50,000 for which Winslow Homer's "Eight Bells" was purchased the other day by a private collector in this city. Winslow is a famous painter of marine scenes. "Eight Bells" was formerly the property of E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia who bought it for $4,700.

For the first time, a course in the Siamese language is to be given in an American University, and it is to be at our own Columbia. Luang Nathabanya a Siamese scholar, is to give the course. It is expected that most of the students who take it, will be interested in the possibilities of foreign trade in that country rather than in the purely cultural aspects of the study.

"The Pigeon," Galsworthy's gently satirical little play just produced at the Greenwich Village Theater by Edward Goodman, has had an appreciative reception. It is an ironical and yet sympathetic treatment of the occasional misfitting of life, and it probably has more true and important thoughts in it than four-fifths of the plays produced. "The Pigeon" is a sentimental optimist upon whom a drunken cabby, a vagabond and a wayward girl fasten themselves. The parts are splendidly interpreted, with Whitford Kane, Galsworthy's own choice for the part, as "The Pigeon."

Miss Maude A. Royden, who fought the Church of England's bar against sex and occupies the pulpit of the City Temple, in London, is to be one of our visitors this spring, when she is coming to attend the Y. W. C. A. convention to be held in New York.

Bessie McCoy Davis is back on Broadway; back at the Winter Garden. The public has hoped ever since the death of her husband, Richard Harding Davis, that she would come back to the dancing stage permanently, and this new move makes us believe that perhaps she is going to do it at last.

One of the interesting exhibitions in town is that of the "Children's School" at the Bourgeois Gallery. Here are drawings and paintings by children from four to eleven years of age, and they are worth seeing, not as curiosities but as accomplishments. Margaret Naumberg, director of the school, says that the reason the children have done what they have is because they been allowed ever since they first took up the pencil to depict just what they felt impelled to portray, not what they were told to.

Did you ever see so many red hats? The windows here are full of them, and undoubtedly are the same over the rest of the country. They do make the avenues gay, but if the milliners sell as many as they are showing we are going to be pretty tired of them by the time warm weather comes.

Why women explore their husbands' pockets was well explained the other day when the Bowman hotel group here announced that the valet departments of their hotels returned $100,000 to trousseaued travelers in the last year. Four thousand of it belonged to Jess Willard. One transient recovered 3,000 francs and another one 50 yen. In addition to cold cash, the hotel valets returned to the absent minded and trusting guests, scores of love letters, engagement rings, corkscrews, and a variety of other personal belongings.

Seven men risked drowning in the East River the other day to rescue one hat. Just a man's hat, too! The hat belonged to William Smith, 354 Hancock street, and it blew into the river off the foot of Webster street. His three companions tried to get it for him and all four fell off the edge of the pier into the water. Three others came along just then and plunged in to rescue the quartet. The seven were finally saved by twelve employees of a nearby gas company. The hat still floats down the East River.

Louisville. — Charles Francis, 18, narrowly escaped death when a motor truck that he was driving was hurled forty feet through the air by a south-bound Louisville and Nashville passenger train at the Shelby street crossing. So great was the impact that the truck was urned completely around and landed on one side. Francis fell to the rear of the truck while it was still in the air, and witnesses were astounded to see him crawl, practically unscathed, from beneath the wreckage.

FESS WANTS AMENDMENT TO PROTECT PRESIDENCY

Would Prevent Recurrence of Total Disability at Time of Great National Need.

Washington, Jan. — In order to prevent the recurrence of the United States being without a responsible head of the government because of prolonged incapacity of the president, representative Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee, seeks a constitutional amendment. He says:

"The force of the Constitution touching the question of vacancies in the executive office is as follows: 'In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice President.'

"That has occurred in our history five times. It first occurred in the time of Tyler, then Fillmore, then Johnson, then of Arthur, and lastly of Roosevelt. I am mentioning the Vice Presidents who succeeded to office instead of the Presidents who died. There is no dispute here, except whether the Vice-President becomes Acting President or the President. It was decided President instead of Acting President.

"The Constitution further provides: 'And the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability both of the President and Vice President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected.'

"You will not by a plain wording of the Constitution that it covers only the cases where both President and Vice President are incapacitated, and gives authority to the Congress to fill the vacancy. We had the law of 1792 to cover this situation and which provided that if the President and Vice-President both died or a vacancy occurred because of removal or otherwise, the President pro tempore of the Senate would act as President. If he should die or be removed or resign, then the Speaker of the House should take the office. This stood as the law until 1886, but was never employed. Then, in 1886 that was changed, omitting the President pro tempore of the Senate, also the Speaker of the House, and substituting the members of the Cabinet, successively, beginning with the Secretary of State. But this does not apply in the case of the disability of the President to perform his duties. There is no provision in the Constitution giving power to Congress to provide for filling the office if the inability of the President to perform his duties should occur. Neither is there, as I see it, any authority anywhere to define the disability. There is no provision in the Constitution that I see for either defining disability or providing for it when defined and established. When President Garfield was lying at the point of death for months although it was known his condition incapacitated him to function as the head of the nation, under the law as it stands he was the President. I think it is generally conceded, and this can be said with no discredit to his greatness, that he was not in mental or physical condition to execute the law, but nevertheless he was still the President and no one could act for him. The situation at the time was so acute that for explanation of the terms, I might say, there was no public discussion of his disability.

"Inability" is the term used in the Constitution which refers to the matter to be established by proof, and 'disability' is the term used in the same paragraph to refer to the matter when once it is established by proof. Before his death, and during the weeks of suspense, there was no discussion of President Garfield's disability to perform the duties of his office; but as soon as the end came general discussion of the subject was taken up in the House. Among the number were five of the greatest thinkers of our country. One was Senator Trumbull, of Illinois, who discussed the constitutional question from the standpoint of a legislator and constitutional lawyer."

BOAT SHOW IS TO BE HELD
IN NEW YORK CITY
All Sorts of Craft To Be Displayed
At Big Exposition This Month
In New York City.

Everything that floats in the way of a boat, from a fifty-five foot cruiser to a toy model, including racing boats, sailing boats, hydro-planes, row boats, canoes and even ice-boats will be shown at the New York Motor Boat, Ship and Engine Show which opens in the Grand Central Palace Friday, February 17, to continue through Saturday the 25th. The exhibits of equipment for boats will be just as varied as those of the boats themselves, for they will range from a 13 ton heavy oil engine to the delicate mechanism which operate the miniatures. The fact that the tax has been removed from the used of all boats of 32 feet in length or under and of 5 tons weight or under, has given a tremendous impetus to the recreation of boating in all its forms. It has caused a rush for space at this exposition and that space has long ago been taken, indicating that the exposition will be the greatest ever held in this country. This show is given by the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers and is in charge of a show committee of which John J. Armory is chairman with James Craig and Charles A. Criegel as members. Different days of the exposition have been designated as special occasions. Monday, February 20th, will be Waterways League Day. Tuesday, February 21st, will be Buffalo Day, and the Society of Automotive Engineers will hold a session in the forenoon. Wednesday, February 22nd, will be Canadian Day; Thursday the National Association and Great Lakes day with the annual meetings of the association. Friday will be Yachman's Day, with those raised by club membership meetings of the American, Mississippi Valley, International Union and other organizations, while Saturday has been designated as Philadelphia's Day.

WASHINGTON YOUNGSTERS LAUNCH BABY BEEF WORK. With the arrival of 26 Aberdeen Angus calves, boys and girls in Washington county who are members of the baby beef club have started their careers as beef cattle producers. The animals were purchased for eight cents a pound through the co-operation of local bankers and commission men. With the assistance of County Agent R. M. Heath and the junior agricultural club department of the College of Agriculture, the youngsters will feed and develop their calves until this fall when they will be sent to a livestock show at Louisville to compete with those raised by club members from other counties of the state.
